

WANTED: FLAG? FOR OAKLAND'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

First step towards Oakland's centennial celebration was taken last night by the City Council.

On the motion of Councilman William H. D. Clausen the council directed Mayor Clifford E. Rishell to appoint a citizens committee to plan a three-day program for a celebration to start next May 1; the 100th anniversary of the city government.

Clausen suggested a city flag be chosen by contest, with a $100 prize. On suggestion of Councilman Raymond E. Pease
the money will be put up by council members and City Manager John F. Hassler.

Artists Asked To Join in Flag Design Contest

A call to artists to participate in the "Flag Design Contest" for the Oakland Centennial Observance, was issued yesterday by Eric E. Stearne, chairman of the art committee.

Deadline for entries is April 10, at 5 p.m. Stearns requests they be submitted to Room 305, Oakland City Hall, care of the art committee.

Ten awards highlighted by a $100 first place prize and $50 for second place, in the professional division, are offered, Stearns reported.

"Flag designs should be made in 2 x 3 proportion, and should bear the name and address of the artist on the back," he said.

The jury will consist of representatives of the art departments of the University of California, Mills College and the California College of Arts and Crafts.

Eight awards will go to grammar, junior high, high school college and art school students.

$200 Prize to Go to Designer Of Official Flag for Oakland

The City of Oakland is going to have an official flag.

And the incentive is the Centennial Observance that opens here May 1.

The art committee for the birthday tribute has extended an invitation to grade school, prep, college and professional artists to come up with an appropriate flag design.

A grand prize of $200 will be awarded to the artist adjudged the first prize winner of all classes, Chairman Eric E. Stearne announced.

The deadline is April 10 at 5 p.m. Stearne requests that flag designs be submitted to Room 305, Oakland City Hall, care of the art committee.

Stearne explains:

"The winner of each class will be judged, and in turn will compete for the grand prize. The winner of the grand prize will not only gain the award in his respective class, but will also receive $200."

The jury will consist of representatives of the art departments of the University of California, Mills College and the California College of Arts and Crafts.

Flag Design

FOR D APR 7

1952

Deadline Near

Only three days remain until the entry deadline for the "Flag Design Contest" for the Oakland Centennial Observance, Eric E. Stearne, chairman of the art committee, noted today.

A $200 prize will be awarded to the artist adjudged the first prize winner of all classes, Stearne said.

Flag designs must be submitted to Room 305, Oakland City Hall, by 5 p.m. Thursday.

Prizes will be awarded to participants in the grade school, prep, college and professional classifications.

The jury will consist of representatives of the art departments of the University of California, Mills College and the California College of Arts and Crafts.

The winning design will become Oakland's official flag.

Stearne today announced the following winners in the Centennial poster contest:

Rudolf Marzi, first prize; Carl Bray, second prize; Anselmo Asercion and B. J. McGrary, honorable mention. All prize winners are students of the California College of Arts and Crafts here.